

MODERN TOOLS for an Ancient Science

It's only natural that as technology continues advancing, the tools and ways we think about our work evolve as well. At EPOCH, we strive to stay at the forefront of our field and have integrated modern tools into our workflows along with time-proven techniques. 3D laser scanning technology has progressed to great heights and over the last decade we have developed methods of approach for utilizing laser scan data in apping and monitoring services. The maps are technologically superior to traditional surveys and 3D point clouds are now supported by a range of design software. Reach out today and see how this technology can work for you.
